

MRS. YOUNG IN RAGE IN COURT

Wife Who Tricked Lawyer to Imperial Palm Garden and Had Him Arrested Quarrels with Magistrate Brann.

HE CALLS HER IMPERTINENT.

Man Who Exposed Biggar-Bennett Conspiracy Rolled All Over Broadway in Clutches of His Wife's Lawyer—Admits He Stole the Child.

Sparks from highly irascible tempers fairly flew about the Jefferson Market Court to-day when Mrs. Alexander C. Young appeared before Magistrate Brann to prosecute her former husband for kidnapping her little child last Saturday. She lured him to the Palm Garden of the Imperial Hotel last night by the ruse of a reconciliation, and when he appeared had him served with a warrant.

Young, who is a prominent Hoboken lawyer and has recently gained much publicity by his connection with the Laura Biggar case, was so indignant at the trick that he resisted arrest and fought Mrs. Young's lawyer all the way to the Tenderloin police station.

The charge against him in court was not only kidnapping but assault with intent to kill. This latter because of his fight with the lawyer. Magistrate Brann started in to investigate the case, but he hadn't asked two questions before Mrs. Young, who was trembling with excitement, began denouncing Young.

"You are a most impertinent woman," declared the Magistrate, the color flushing into his face. "I put this case over until this afternoon."

Mrs. Young tried to make another remark. "You shut up!" roared the Court. "Put these people off the bridge. I don't want to hear any more."

They were all hustled down, and Magistrate Brann cooled off hearing the drunk cases. Young was in court, the exact opposite in appearance to his wife. He was cool and smiling. Fred House was in court to defend him.

When the case came on in the afternoon, Lawyer House argued that as the decree of the Supreme Court granting the divorce allowed the father the custody of the child for three out of the nine months without specifying which three, Young could not have been guilty of kidnapping. Mrs. Young's lawyer said that Young was about to take the child out West. Young denied this. He has the child but said he would not remove it from where it is now. He refused to say where it is.

Court Advises a Writ.

As Magistrate Brann did not want to get into conflict with the Supreme Court, he advised Mrs. Young to get out a writ of habeas corpus and have the higher tribunal pass on the question. She said she would, and both the kidnapping case and the other charge of assault were adjourned until Saturday.

Not many days ago Young announced that he had effected a reconciliation with wife. She promptly denied this. He followed this by kidnapping his little daughter on Saturday last. Yesterday when Mrs. Young, to get possession of her child, wrote him a friendly note asking him to meet her at the Imperial, Young fanned his efforts for a reconciliation were to be rewarded.

He hurried over from Jersey City only to run into two detectives and a lawyer whom Mrs. Young had invited to keep the tryst with her.

Young was so incensed by the trick played upon him that he struck Mr. Day, his wife's attorney, on the way to the station-house. The men clinched and fought rough and tumble all about Broadway until the detectives dragged them apart.

Last Saturday, Mrs. Young says, the nurse took the baby for a walk, and at the corner of Forty-fifth street and Sixth avenue was met by Mr. Young, who stopped his carriage to get his child. He asked permission of the nurse to take the little girl for a ride, and it was granted. It is said, on condition that she would soon be returned to the St. James, where Mrs. Young is stopping.

But Mrs. Young has not seen her little daughter since that time. So she made the engagement to meet her husband at the Imperial and was there with her attorney and the two detectives. At the station Young admitted that he had taken the child. It is the second time he has kidnapped her.

In August, when Mrs. Young was visiting in Bradford, Conn., he carried his daughter away to New Jersey, where he held her until the court ordered him to return her to Mrs. Young.

Mrs. Young is the daughter of the late Dr. J. M. Allister, of Elizabeth, N. J. and the niece of the late Ward McAllister. She was granted a divorce, $75 a month alimony and the custody of the child.

ASKS $20,000 FOR HER FATHER'S DEATH

New Motion in Elmira Mooney's Suit Recalls Ejection of Aged Joel Holcombe.

A motion to file supplemental charges in the suit of Elmira Mooney against Benjamin E. Balantine was made before Justice Dickney, of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn to-day. The suit was brought to recover $20,000 damages for the death of Mrs. Mooney's father, Joel Holcombe, who died soon after being ejected from a house at No. 151 Henry street, Brooklyn, on April 20, 1901. The story of the ejection by Balantine and two deputies created much interest at the time. The old man had been asked himself on the upper floor to force his claim to a share of the property, and resisted all efforts made to dislodge him. A few weeks later he died at Brewster, N. Y., and his daughter is trying to show that his death was the result of injuries received in the ejection.

JEWEL THIEVES NOT CAUGHT

Police Looked for Them in Vain on the Kronprinz Wilhelm. Lawyer A. L. Jacobs, of No. 30 Broad street, is explaining to his friends how his wife was robbed of her jewelry, valued at $10,000, while en route from Frankfurt to Berlin by rail. Mrs. Jacobs carried her gems in a green plush bag, and did not miss them until about to leave the train.

The Berlin police notified the local authorities that a man, suspected of the theft, was on board the Kronprinz Wilhelm when it arrived yesterday, but two officers failed to find the man. The police of both countries have descriptions of the missing jewels.

WOMEN SHOCK MOTT.

Repeat Language Used to Each Other and He Stops Ears. Mrs. Josie Minor and Mrs. Elbert Blando, both of whom live in the block in One Hundred and Ninety-eight street, near Valentine avenue, appeared in the Morrisania court to-day to make counter charges against each other of having used vile language.

Each woman asserted that the other was continually abusing her. Magistrate Mott asked them to repeat some of the language used. When they did so the magistrate put his finger tips in his ears.

"Oh, that is awful," he said, "I never would have thought that any woman would have said such things. Get out of this court, both of you, as quick as you can."

MAY SUE KING FOR RICH LEGACY.

Leopold Said to Lay Claim to Dead Queen's Fortune Bequeathed to Her Daughters.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—Emily Crawford in Truth, says the Countess de Lonyay, formerly Crown Princess Stephanie of Austria-Hungary, and the creditors of Princess Philip of Saxe-Coburg, probably will be forced to sue King Leopold of Belgium to obtain their share of the late Queen Christina's fortune, amounting to $2,000,000, which she left equally to her two daughters.

It is believed that the King claims the money as a creditor for amounts lent and unpaid.

A GOOD DEAL OF NONSENSE

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics." Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body can be renewed in but one way, and that is from wholesome food properly digested. There is no other way, and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous and on a par with the fol-de-rol that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy, that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied it is useless to attempt to cure stomach trouble by the use of "tonics," "pills" and "cathartics" which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 2,000 grains of meat, eggs and starchy foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass bottle at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets because it is not only the sick and ailing, but well people who use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of the food. People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well. Prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it when it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better than any other argument.

BOY BURGLAR OF 12 CAUGHT

Jimmy O'Brien, a Little Mite of Humanity, Willingly Confessed to a Short but Active Career of Crime.

GOT BIG BOOTY FOR OTHERS.

Like Oliver Twist, a Scout, but Without Compunctions. His Skillful Reconnaissances Paved the Way to Robberies in Brooklyn Homes.

A little scrap of humanity whose head hardly reached to the desk behind which the Magistrate sat in the Myrtle Avenue Court in Brooklyn to-day stood first on one foot and then on the other as he told the court all about his brief and inglorious career of crime. He is only 12 years old and he has been a burglar but three weeks, but he has been extremely active in that time.

The youngster's name is Jimmy O'Brien. He lives at No. 117 Butler street. With him were two nineteen-year-old boys, Patrick Sarsfield Moriarty, of No. 476 Henry street, and Fred Murphy, of No. 10 Tillary street. All three were charged with burglary and held for further examination. Jimmy admitted the charge and went into details. They were arrested last night at Butler and Hoyt streets.

According to Jimmy, he fell in with the other two about three weeks ago. They told him they needed help in their jobs, and Jimmy's conscience being supplanted, he agreed to assist them. The jobs they did were breaking into flats and houses and looting them.

Jimmy was appointed head breaker-in. He used to climb to the roofs of houses and descend into the one picked for looting by means of the scuttle. If the coast was clear, he opened the door for his companions. One would enter and with the help of Jimmy, gather up the handy valuables while the third stood guard.

Here is the list of houses which Jimmy says they robbed: Mrs. Mary Schramm, No. 12 Prospect place, $428 worth of jewelry taken; William Reese, No. 473 Pacific street, $80 worth of jewelry taken; Mrs. Henry Edwards, No. 473 Pacific street, $100 in jewelry taken; John Lindquist, No. 378 Dean street, $60 worth of jewelry taken; William Robinson, No. 351 Dean street, $10 worth of silverware taken; No. 100 Fourth avenue, $60 worth of silver and clothing taken.

The police had reports of all the robberies except the one in Fourth avenue. They say that Moriarty has been convicted of burglary before, but that his sentence was suspended. An old warrant was served on him to-day by County Detective Dagnarelli, in which he is charged with a burglary which took place about five months ago.

Jimmy O'Brien also told the court that he never got more than $5 all told from the proceeds of the robberies. The other two boys either sold the loot or gave it to their friends. Jimmy said they used to give him 50 cents or a dollar after each burglary.

GERMAN COUNT LOCKED UP.

He Ordered Elaborate Meal, Then Couldn't Pay for It.

An alleged German Count is locked up in Long Island City for trying to get a meal without cash. He gave the name of Julius Meyer, but he admitted that this was fictitious.

Last night he went into the restaurant of William Gerbes, No. 63 Fulton street, Astoria, and ordered an elaborate meal. When he had stowed it away he offered a check in payment. Gerbes called a policeman.

The man excused his conduct by saying that he was a German Count temporarily pressed for money, as his expected remittance had not arrived. The man was locked up.

Magistrate Connetton held him for further investigation to-day in the Long Island City Police Court.

DEMENTED MAN GONE.

General Alarm Out for Missing Alexander R. Robertson.

He is about 5 feet 11 inches tall, weighs 175 pounds, has dark hair and mustache mixed with gray. When he disappeared he wore a black overcoat, suit, derby hat and necktie. He has been drinking heavily lately and is slightly demented.

ODD PLIGHT OVER WOMAN'S RICHES

Guardian for Wealthy but Eccentric Mrs. Larner Says He Cannot Get Within a Mile of Her or Her Home.

GUARDED BY DETECTIVES.

She Has Every Luxury She Desires and Is Supposed to Have Freedom, Too, but is Closely Watched at All Times.

According to assertions of contending counsel in a motion made to-day before Justice Bischoff in the Supreme Court, Mrs. Alma Louise Larner, an adjudged incompetent, worth half a million dollars, is involved in as strange a legal complication as ever grew out of the intricacies of the law.

According to the lawyers' statements her legal guardian "cannot get within a mile of her, her husband will not have her in his house and when she goes to visit her children in a palatial residence in Poughkeepsie she is followed about the grounds by detectives with shot-guns in their pockets."

Married Three Times.

Mrs. Larner has been married three times. Her second husband left her an estate of $100,000, which has increased to $200,000. Some time after his death she was adjudged incompetent because of her habits. This was after she had married Albert E. Larner, a man half her age.

Upon the request to the Court of her children, Henry L. Goodwin was appointed committee of her person and the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company committee of her estate, with the direction to pay $5,500 a year to Mr. Goodwin.

Upon the application of her husband Justice Gaynor released her from the custody of Mr. Goodwin.

Now the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company requests Justice Bischoff to allow it to discontinue the payments of $5,500 to her committee, and this morning Charles Blandy, counsel for Mr. Goodwin, made the following statement to the Court:

"This woman is now in an impossible condition. The committee of her person cannot get within a mile of her, her husband will not have her in his home, and she refuses to live with her children."

What She Told Husband. "The other day, on Oct. 11, her husband said to her when she went to him, 'You can go back to your children or you can go to me—'

"We placed her in a $200,000 house on the Hudson, gave her horses, carriages and every luxury, but she would not stay there, and we could not restrain her, because Justice Gaynor ordered that we must not deprive her of her liberty. The Court should direct that something should be done to give the committee some legal powers to act for Mrs. Larner. Justice Gaynor did not discharge the committee, and therefore the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company should continue to pay the money for her support to the committee, as it stands ready all the time to care for her in the most luxurious manner possible."

Justice Bischoff after listening to arguments by counsel for the trust company directed the continuance of the payment of money to the committee, reserved decision.
